

PHILOSOPHY OF MEDIA SCIENTIFIC SYMPOSIUM 2018.

The importance of reflecting and regulating the system of mediation in the media is evidenced by our electronic journal In medias res, five scientific journals (Media and Publicity, The Future of the Media, Creativity and the Media, Mythology and Imagination, and Media and Truth, all of which will be in print by this year's symposium), some hundred video clips from our symposiums, 65,000 views of papers from our symposia on hrcak.srce.hr, and the thousands interested in live streams of our symposiums, in addition to an increasing number of scientists and science institutions getting involved in reflecting on the media under the umbrella of the philosophy of media.

We invite you to join us through presentations and participation in discussions at Tribina grada Zagreba, Kaptol 27, in a celebration of philosophy of media and related disciplines in the unique space of Filozofska kuća Xantipa (House of Philosophy Xantipa) in Zagreb.

Media are at the heart of our interest. If you take a look at the papers from previous symposiums in our journal or conference proceedings, you will find it easier to decide how to move forward and create new dimensions of reflection. Everything is a medium, but the medium is not and cannot be everything. That is why we need critically-oriented interdisciplinary ideas and papers investigating the dark side of mediation in the media so as to warn of the disaster of the passive acceptance of a system whose primary goal (alongside profit creation) is the production of said passivity.

We welcome philosophers, communication scientists, public relations specialists, pedagogues, theologians, didacts, artists, scholars from the fields of natural and social sciences and humanities, media practitioners, doctoral students (in case their subject deals with the media), etc...
